Dear Dhruv Joglekar,

On behalf of the Committee on Admissions and Degrees, I am pleased to extend to you an offer of admission to the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health. We hope that you will join the class entering in the 2019-2020 academic year as a candidate for the Full-Time Master of Science (80-credit) in Biostatistics. Your expected graduation date is May 27, 2021.

You will be joining a group of students who bring with them not only impressive professional experience and excellent academic training, but also dedication to the profession of public health. You are to be commended on the fine record of achievement by which you earned your place in this year's cohort. You will benefit from your association with each other as well as from the challenges of the public health program.

If you plan to accept our offer of admission, you will be able to pay the $500 deposit by credit card using the reply form, which is due by the date listed in Items to Review on the my.Harvard Portal. This non-refundable deposit will secure your place in our entering class and will be credited toward tuition. Please be advised that if you are supported by an outside agency and pay the deposit out of personal funds, you may submit a request for a refund following registration.

Please be aware that your admission is contingent upon our receiving your contingency item(s) by May 1, 2019. Should you require an extension to this deadline or have any questions, please contact us prior to April 15, 2019. We reserve the right to re-evaluate our offer of admission upon receipt and review of the required contingency item(s). You can view your contingencies as well as fill out the reply form by visiting my.Harvard.

Additionally in my.Harvard, you will find links to important and required information including admitted student events, immunization forms, housing, registration, and orientation. International students will find further information needed in order to process visa applications. Please also note that your official letter of admission will be available to you at all times in my.Harvard.

Congratulations on your admission to the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health. We look forward to hearing from you and sincerely hope that you will accept our offer of admission. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact us at 617-432-1031.

Sincerely,
